

Memar Oy, Customer Notification
24 September, 2008

Memar is growing. The company merges with Faperum Oy and its external communications are reorganized.

Memar Oy will merge with Faperum Oy. The merger is a result of long and close production cooperation. The merger was announced at the Subcontracting Trade Fair held on 17 September, 2008 at the Tampere Exhibition and Sports Centre. The new company will be called Memar Oy. The merger will be registered officially on 31 December, 2008.

The growth company will go up one size

The driving force behind the merger is the increased economy and meaningfulness of organizing operations as one, larger company. After the merger, Memar will employ over 100 metalwork professionals. The employees will be transferred to the new company.

Memar will continue to improve the quality of its production technology by continuous development work. The company's main product groups are subcontractor machining and component production, forgings, fasteners, and maintenance parts for the process industry.

The company's new look

Memar's look will also change with the merger. The new look can be viewed online at: www.memar.fi.
